

Commercial

General

We have undertaken many commercial developments, ranging from city centre schemes to large retail parks as well as high tech offices and headquarters buildings.

Ecologically sustainable techniques, such as green roofs and walls, water management and harvesting, and the uses of recycled and low embodied energy materials are finding wider application now that their commercial benefit has been demonstrated.

Designing structures which help architects to create modern, attractive buildings within a commercially viable budget provides an interesting challenge.

