The Grange Nursing Home

Peter Dann have been involved in projects at The Grange, a private hospital and nursing home for many years. The most recent project being a 50 bedroom unit with previous work including a 30 bedroom unit, and dining room extension.

This project consisted of individual bedrooms with en-suite facilities, nurses stations and an operating theatre suite. The accommodation was built around a central atrium, which was up to three storeys high in places and included a second floor plant room. Also included was limited staff accommodation in self-contained flats.

The structure generally consisted of load bearing masonry supporting pre-cast concrete floors. The atrium was steel framed with exposed steel roof trusses surrounded by a first floor balcony.

The project included 21 'close care' suites. These were a series of self-contained one bedroom apartments within several terraced bungalows. These were attached to the main nursing house via covered walkways.
